THE NEXT HOUSE.

Republicans Claim Five Majority in the Next House,

Notwithstanding Unfavorable News from West Virginia.

Its Closeness Lends Impetus to the Extra-Session Movement.

Principles of Congressional Comments on the Message.

Completion of the House.

WASHINGTON, December 4.—The receipt of the news of the result of the recount in Charleston, W. Va., by which Alderson, democratic candidate for congress from the Third district, is given a majority of 17, and the election of [illegible] republican candidate for governor, is said to be secured, did not disturb the republican leaders, so they say. They assert that their majority in the house in the fifty-second congress, with the West Virginia delegation solidly democratic, will be five. The only apparent effect of the West Virginia news was to slightly strengthen the sentiment among republican members in favor of holding an extra session soon after the beginning of the new administration. It is conceded that General Harrison will make his action in this matter conform closely to the wishes of the members-elect.

Comments on the Message.

WASHINGTON, December 4.—Following are among the congressional expressions on Cleveland's message:

Springer, democrat, of Illinois, said: "It is as strong on the tariff question as the last one, though not so explicit. It is a good paper."

Congressman Reed, republican, of Maine: "A year has brought about a great change. Then it was a condition that confronted us and not a theory, and now apparently it is a theory and not a condition."

Senator Ingalls, republican, of Kansas: "President Cleveland's importunity is entirely too perfect to be the result of self-control."

Congressman Boutelle, republican, of Maine: "It is old straw threshed again. The message is weary, stale, flat and unprofitable."

Senator Gorman, democrat, of Maryland: "It is a very interesting, statesman like document."

Congressman Foran, democrat, of Ohio: "The president has consented to what I would alone this time. If he had been a [illegible] before the republicans would have the next president and the [illegible]."

Action of the Utes.

Special to the Gazette.

DENVER, Colo., December 4.—The commission appointed to treat with the Southern Utes for their removal to their new reservation completed their labors with the agency Monday by giving the Indians a barbecue dinner, and after spending a day or two to this place will leave for Washington, where the treaty will be submitted to congress for approval. The main points of the treaty are as follows: The new reservation will consist of that portion on the north bank of the San Juan river, where it crosses the Colorado state line and extends north sixty miles, then west to the Colorado river, then down the Colorado river to the San Juan river and up the San Juan river to the starting point, embracing over one million acres of land in southeastern Utah. In addition the Indians will receive $50,000, or $5,000 each for ten years, and when located on the new reservation $20 000 worth of goods. The Indians appear willing, and express a desire that the treaty may be ratified by congress during the present session.

Failure of the Railroad Treaty.

NEW YORK, December 4.—It was announced this morning that the negotiations for the settlement of the troubles west and south west have been broken off and that the clearing house plan has fallen through.

A committee headed by President Shaw of the St. Louis and San Francisco road is still in existence, but has not yet convened, nor [illegible] of the clearing house scheme, opposed by the opposition of President Ashitt of the North-Western.

Fifty-first Congress.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, December 4.—In the senate annual reports, including that of the secretary of the treasury, were presented and appropriately referred.

Bills were introduced and referred, including one for the construction of steel rams, to be armed with Whitehead dynamite guns, and one for the construction of two steel cruisers, to be armed with dynamite guns.

At 2:30 moved to proceed to the consideration of the Union Pacific settlement bill.

Hoar opposed the motion on the ground that he had no time to examine the bill. It was a matter that should be carefully considered.

Morgan favored postponement, as an opportunity to investigate the matter, was a very important one to the senate. A select committee had been appointed last session to investigate the matter, and had devoted much time to it. The committee found the facts, but the companies could not be brought to an account of difference in [illegible].—Teller and Morgan unanimously reported a bill to relieve the Union Pacific only. The bill had been made in writing and could have been printed as long ago as July last, and could be disposed of in a few morning hours.

Hoar said there was no particular hurry, as the debt would not mature for two years. In the present state of the public mind, and in view of the [illegible] which [illegible] recently made, he objected to proceeding to the consideration of any measure that would discharge public business.

Hoar's objection prevailed, and the bill went over.

Allison moved to proceed to the consideration of the tariff bill. Carried.

Allison said the democratic senators who had amendments to offer to the tariff bill were present and prepared for them to-day, but would be to-morrow. He therefore asked postponement until 2 o'clock to-morrow. Agreed to.

Adjourned.

HOUSE.

The speaker laid before the house the annual reports of the secretary of the treasury and the comptroller of the currency, which were appropriately referred.

Leave was granted the committee on appropriations to sit during sessions of the house.

A resolution for investigation into the purchase of real estate by the commissioners of the District of Columbia was referred to a committee.

MacDonald, of Minnesota, presented a petition of citizens of North Dakota for immediate admission into the union of South Dakota and Montana, and for the consideration of conventions in North Dakota, Washington, and New Mexico. Referred to committees.

At the close of the last session Dingley moved to [illegible] having made several unsuccessful attempts to get a bill for the [illegible] of a monument to Major General Henry Knox at Thomaston, Maine, but subsequently the vote by which the order was made to reconsider the motion to reconsider was reconsidered.

After some filibustering the house proceeded to consideration of the bill and Dingley briefly sketched its public services of General Knox.

Kilgore agreed with anything that could be said in praise of General Knox but he did not think General Knox's fame was superior to the constitution of the United States.

After Kilgore's remarks on the monument that in his opinion congress exceeded its authority in using money wrung from the people by taxing to erect monuments in Maine, or Texas, or Colorado, Breckinridge, of Kentucky, said there were more the calendar twelve bills for the erection of monuments throughout the country, the appropriations contained therein aggregating $225,000. It seemed to him that the government was going into the business of building [illegible] by the wholesale.

McMillin, while expressing his reverence for the memory of revolutionary heroes, entered his protest against the general government going into the states for the purpose of erecting [illegible].

Spinola, of New York, while opposed to extravagant public expenditures, felt it his duty to support a measure which would transmit to coming generations the memory of one of those men who underwent hardships and suffering in order that the republic might be created.

On demand for the previous question the vote stood, yeas 111, nays 49, no quorum. Whereupon was ordered, and 205 members responded to their names. The question, recurring on a quorum voted. Opponents of the measure seemed to [illegible] its defeat.

Several ineffectual roll calls were then had, and finally Dingley yielded to Mansur to offer an amendment locating the monument in Washington.

The previous question was ordered on the amendment and third reading of the bill. On Mansur's amendment the vote was yeas 66, nays 92, no quorum, and more calls followed. This proceeding was continued until 5 o'clock, when under the order adopted at the last session, the house adjourned.

C., B. & Q. Dynamiters.

GENEVA, Ill., December 4.—The trial of C., B. & Q. dynamiters began here today, with Judge Wilson presiding. Defendants' counsel did not arrive from Chicago until 11 o'clock. When the case was called they moved to strike out of the indictment either the twenty-six counts which charge conspiracy or the two alleging that defendants contributed money for the purchase of dynamite with which to destroy the property of the railroad company. This was promptly overruled, and the selection of jurors began, and when the court adjourned for the day they had not been agreed upon.

Attack on Balfour.

LONDON, December 4.—O'Brien resumed the Irish debate and made a long and vigorous attack upon Balfour for his treatment of Mandeville. He defied Balfour to face the English people again and try to do to the death the Parnellites who refused to acknowledge themselves miscreants.

Mr. Balfour replying entered a denial of the charges. He said the matter had now been thoroughly threshed, and it might safely be left to the judgment of the country.

T. P. O'Connor and Harrington followed. His motion relative to the reduction of the Irish appropriation was rejected by a vote of 233 to 16.

The Fire Record.

MUSKEGON, Mich., December 4.—The greatest timber fire Muskegon has ever had broke out among lumber yards on the Hockley and Hume docks this afternoon. The fire burned fiercely, owing to a high west wind, and before it was [illegible] seven and eight million feet of lumber burned, entailing a loss of about $150,000, partially insured.

NEW ORLEANS, December 4.—Fire this afternoon destroyed the buildings occupied by James Beebe & Co., wholesale notions and clothing, and Eugene Dupuy, wholesale boots and shoes. Losses aggregate $125,000.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., December 5.—A dispatch from Cortland at 1:30 o'clock says the Cortland wagon [illegible] are in flames with no hope of saving them.

Mitchell's Hands.

PHILADELPHIA, December 4.—Charles Mitchell had an operation performed on his left hand by Dr. Dougherty to-day, and will hardly be in shape for [illegible] for some weeks to come. Mitchell's third and fourth knuckles were knocked out of place in the fight in France, and it was found that the hand would never be strong until the bones were restored to their proper places.

Seizure of the Haytian Republic.

NEW YORK, December 4.—Captain Ramsay, of the United States cruiser Boston, has come ashore. He says from inquiry on arrival at Port au Prince, in regard to the seizure of the Haytian republic, he found she had been selling munitions of war and going up and down the coast carrying insurgents. She was [illegible] of war, and was condemned apparently in a regular way.

MOB LAW AT CANON.

Witherill Taken from the Canon Jail and Lynched.

He Offers a Stubborn Resistance in his Cell

But Dies Without a Confession of his Crime.

A Satisfactory Treaty Concluded with the Utes.

Witherill Lynched.

CANON CITY, December 4.—The arrival in the city yesterday noon from Denver of Geo. R. Witherill, the accused murderer of Chas. R. McCain, created the most excitement that has been manifested for the crime threats of lynching were made, and the prisoner was taken to Denver for safe keeping. His return here yesterday was for the purpose of standing trial, which was set for the last of this week. Sheriff Griffith, in order to keep Witherill's presence in the city secret, on arriving at Florence, a little town fifteen miles east of here, left the train and drove to town in a covered [illegible].

The fact that the murderer was here soon leaked out and a mob of a hundred citizens soon organized and early in the evening marched to the jail and demanded of the sheriff the release of Witherill. A strong guard had been placed around the building in anticipation of an attack, and the sheriff feeling confident of his ability to protect the prisoner, refused the request and told the mob that any attempt to force an entrance would result in death to a number of them. The mob retired, but did not disband. Meetings were held and one or two other ineffectual attempts were made to gain entrance to the jail.

A little before 4 o'clock this morning a knock was heard at the kitchen door which connected with the jail, and the sheriff who [illegible] was awakened by the guard. The sheriff [illegible] the keys to the cells to his little boy and went to the door, and in reply to his question, who was there, he received the answer, "A friend who wishes to give you some information. An attack is to be made upon the jail." The sheriff opened the door and he was almost instantly grabbed by the throat, taken into the yard and gagged, while some twenty masked and armed men rushed into the jail, overpowered the guards and began a search for the keys. Not finding them, they began an attack upon the steel cage in which Witherill was confined, and [illegible].

When this began Witherill broke up his feasting and with a knife which [illegible] ready to meet his enemies. When an entrance was effected he jumped amid the [illegible] and struck right and left, several of the attacking party pounced upon him, and he fell into the corridor with the right arm and shoulder shattered. Witherill got up as soon as he recovered from the shock, and stood perfectly still while his broken arm was bound behind him fast to his other one. This must have caused intense pain, though he never moved a muscle or showed any signs of it. He then quietly marched along with his captors through a portion of the city until he reached a telegraph pole near the penitentiary, where he was strung up to a cross bar.

After hanging a few minutes, he was lowered to the ground and asked if he had anything to say. He only shook his head. Again he was strung up, and this time to remain. The murderer remained as stolid as a block of wood, and he would not utter a word. He did not display the least particle of weakness, and when he was pulled into the air not a muscle seemed to quiver. There was not a movement visible and it seemed more like the drawing up of a log than that of a human body. The body remained hanging until late this morning, when he was cut down by the coroner.

Witherill was about forty years of age, and the crime with which he was charged was most brutal. In 1882 Witherill was herding sheep for a man named Wall, in Elbert county. His wife. He and another herder named Wright agreed to kill Wall and steal the herd. One day after this understanding was had Wall came out to the herd and Witherill attacked him with a club and beat his brains out. The herders then drove the sheep to New Mexico and sold them. Both were captured and Witherill sentenced to the penitentiary for life, and his accomplice to eight years. Witherill was pardoned a year ago, after [illegible] fifteen years.

He immediately went to Ironton, a little town in the mountains in the southern part of the state. Last September he in company with two Swedes, named Jansen, started from Ironton to Silverton. Witherill arrived there in due time with the horses and wagons, but the Swedes were never heard of and it is believed he murdered them and hid the bodies in an abandoned mine. This, however, has never been proved. He went from Silverton to Pueblo and sold the horses on [illegible]. Here he became acquainted with McCain who owned two teams and employed him to go to a mine he claimed to own in Jackson. The team started about the middle of October for this place. The next heard of Witherill he was in Denver with the freighting outfit, but McCain could not be found. Witherill was arrested and [illegible] attempted, and McCain's body with the head full of buckshot was found buried in a mine a few miles from this city, where the two had camped one night.

The Newcastle Disaster.

ASPEN, December 4.—A special to the Aspen Times from Glenwood Springs says: A frightful explosion occurred at [illegible] on the Grand River Coal [illegible] Company at Newcastle 12 miles below this place on the Grand river. A number of men were standing on the dump at the mouth of the tunnel when a blast was fired. The shot failed to go off as it should, but it exploded with terrific effect. It caught the men on the dump and blew them fifty feet. One of them named Woods was killed and two others were horribly mangled while six more were badly bruised.

A special train left here at 8 o'clock for the scene with Doctors Cockrell, Clark and Beatty and the coroner aboard. The train returned late this evening bringing the body of Woods. One of the injured men named J. M. Sullivan cannot survive over the night and a second [illegible].

Freight Rates Fixed.

CHICAGO, December 4.—After a session lasting twenty-two days the Transcontinental Association finished its job to-day and adjourned. A system of graded rates was agreed upon. On traffic coming to the Pacific coast the highest class differential rate in favor of Chicago will be 50 cents less than from New York, while the lowest class will be ten cents less. St. Louis rates will be 95 per cent of the Chicago rate, and Missouri river will be 90 per cent of the Chicago rates. Buffalo and Pittsburg are 20 cents less than New York on first class and 5 cents less on the lowest class. Cincinnati, Toledo and Detroit are made 25 cents less than New York on the highest class and five cents less on the lowest class.

A Railroad Contest.

NEW YORK, December 4.—The injunction suit of the Oregon Transcontinental company against the Oregon Navigation was decided to-day in favor of the plaintiffs. By this decision the latter company is prohibited from building branch lines, as well as using money in the hands of the transcontinental company, on the proceeds of the Oregon Navigation consolidated mortgage bonds for the construction of branches in question. It is now reported the Union Pacific, in whose interests the branches were presumably built, and the Northern Pacific roads will buy the Oregon Navigation stock [illegible] the Oregon Transcontinental, and so secure control of the property without guaranteeing dividends or floating stock.

British Troops in Egypt.

LONDON, December 4.—In the commons this evening Lord Randolph Churchill moved to adjourn the debate in order to discuss the sending of troops to Egypt. He said he believed that the government was going against the advice of high and responsible military authorities. For what end was a mere handful of British soldiers exposed to the risk of an encounter with Soudanese? Stanhope, secretary of war, defended the action of the government, and the motion was rejected.

Shortening Hours of Labor.

READING, Pa., December 4.—The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Co. posted a notice this afternoon notifying its employes that on and after to-morrow eight hours will be a day's labor instead of ten. There will be a proportionate reduction in wages. The cause of the reduction of hours is due to the suspension of coal mines, and all persons connected with coal traffic will also be reduced to eight hours. This will enable the company to keep its men employed, but at shorter hours.

Train Robbers Sentenced.

DENVER, December 4.—In the U. S. court to-day the case was called against Ira and John Smith indicted for robbing the mail at the train robbery at Grand Junction over a year ago. Both pleaded guilty and judgment was rendered that both be imprisoned in the government penitentiary at Laramie, Wyo., at hard labor for a term of five years and to pay all the costs. These two are the last of the gang who held up the train, the others having been sentenced some months ago.

Colorado's Official Count.

DENVER, December 4.—The state canvassing board to-day completed the official count so far as the judges of the supreme court and lower house of the general assembly are concerned. The canvass shows the total vote at the last election to be 191,721, an increase over 1887 of 25,103. Elliott's vote is 94,761, and Bourne's 93,610. The probable vote in the state is 2890. The lower house will stand 42 republicans and seven democrats.

Jail Break at Aspen.

ASPEN, Colo., December 4.—Three prisoners broke jail here at nine o'clock to night by cutting a hole through the [illegible]. S. W. Binfield who was bound over for forgery, Steve Reynolds and Charley Lucas for shooting with intent to kill. They got an hour the start of the officers and probably went down the valley.

Colorado's Property.

DENVER, December 4.—State Auditor Kingsley to-day completed a compilation of the assessed valuation of the property of the state. The total assessed valuation is $165,812,246 61. The total tax levied is $2,220,260.27.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1888

There is an undelivered message at the Western Union office for M. P. Ryan [illegible] is married to Miss [illegible] at 5 o'clock last night, at 321 Cosula street, Rev. J. S. Black officiating.

The Rock Island will have its up town ticket office in Wm Jennaus's furniture store. They expect to be into the office by the first of December.

A good many persons took advantage of the cheap rates to the east yesterday and to-day there will be many more go, as a large number waited until after Thanksgiving.

The next regular attraction at the [illegible] will be [illegible] Crismer and Phoebe Davies, who so successfully produced "Called Back" here for two seasons past, in a new play.

The handsome cuts of Green Mountain Falls printed in the last number of the National Passenger will be used by the Echo in its head hereafter. It is the neatest picture of the town ever printed.

On Tuesday evening a meeting will be held in the city hall to consider the subject of next year's base ball. The members of the Athletic association will be at the meeting and will lay before those present the work which will probably be done

Mr. Emery P. Moon, of Block 4, has furnished us with the following weather record for the week ending November 26th, 1888: Highest temperature, 57° on the 24th; lowest temperature, 17° on the 22nd; weekly mean temperature, 34.57. Prevailing [illegible] of the [illegible] south.

Parrish's addition seems to be sharing in the general prosperity, and although prices there still hold firm. It still offers the best opportunity in the city to secure a cheap lot not far removed from the business center. Eighteen lots were sold there last week and nearly a dozen houses are being erected.

The offer of the person signing himself "Tony Pastor" to give a $50 gold medal to the winner of a bicycle race on Thanksgiving day, [illegible] to have been a "fake," as several of the wheelmen of the city repaired to the Mesa road at the hour designated but there were no signs of Tony or the badge.

Arrangements will probably be made by which the suburban train will be put back on the Midland to Cascade and Green Mountain Falls during the fifteen days, allowed the holders of cheap rate tickets from the east. There will be several thousand of the strangers in the city during that time all of whom will be anxious to take the ride.

Manager Nye returned from Aspen yesterday [illegible] where he was on business connected with the opening of the new opera house at that place. He and Manager McCourt of the Tabor Grand, who are the principal theatrical men of the state are to arrange the Colorado circuit. It is to include Aspen and Pueblo hereafter. The old rink at Pueblo is to be fitted up temporarily until the new building is to be completed. Manager Nye says that the new house at Aspen is to be a nice one and tickets will be kept on sale at Gho Fold's drug store.

A rather peculiar accident, although one that may prove quite serious, occurred yesterday afternoon at the corner of Cascade avenue and Boulder street. Mr. J. S. Russell, who runs a wood yard in the city, was driving a horse attached to a light wagon loaded with wood, when the animal became frightened and overturned the vehicle. It was badly broken up and Mr Russell thrown out, and it was reported, quite severely injured. The horse after getting away from the wagon went down Boulder street to a point just south of Dr. Adams' residence. At that point it came to an open sewer trench and after staggering around for some time managed to fall into it head first. It was about nine feet deep at that point, but after about an hour's hard work the horse was gotten out not very badly hurt.

The "National Passenger" is a publication which is being gotten out by the Rock Island road to advertise the towns along its route. It prints about 20,000 copies each month which are distributed all over the country to people who are known to travel extensively. The November number is largely devoted to Colorado, [illegible] and about 25,000 copies were printed to be distributed largely among the excursionists who arrived in the state on Wednesday. This is one of the methods which the new road has adopted to advertise the country. The article on Colorado Springs is begun with the following well turned sentence: "The city of Colorado Springs, one of the most prominent in Colorado, may very properly be styled one of the municipal classes of Mt. Centennial state—a cameo in city a perennial fountain of health and a magnificent market in trade. To write her up—the most which pre[illegible] could [illegible] down—must have the pen of more than [illegible] the brush of an artist and a supply of coloring material sufficient to put the[illegible] gorgeous rainbow's blush. She is [illegible] daughter of mountain and vale was born 1871, and is therefore in her 'sweet sixteen' period of life and grandeur, just blossoming into commercial [illegible] full of animation, vivacity and sprightliness, and scribbled on various bits of paper. Mr. Nye wore a black skull cap to protect the clean bald head that has grown familiar to the public through the clever caricatures of Mr. McDougall, the artist of the New York Journal. A few passed now and then. Mr. Nye spoke of something passing away like a snow in April, "or," interrupted Mr. Illey, "like

Bellevue Sanitarium

On the fourth of June of the present year a society was formed having for its object the building of a sanitarium for consumptives, who although not paupers, might yet be unable to procure the care and attendance so necessary in sickness. At a meeting held on the second of July it was decided by the advisory committee that a sum of $10,000 should be secured before the society should purchase land or make plans for building At the next meeting Monday, December the third, it was announced that the efforts of the society had been crowned with success and that within six months the sum of $10,000, and somewhat more had been subscribed A kind offer of ten acres of land situated south of St Francis hospital being made by General Palmer and the Colorado Springs company upon very favorable terms, it has been decided to accept it During the summer the location committee have visited every available site, both in town and in the neighborhood Their reports were duly laid before the society. A temporary committee on plans and location has now been appointed to act in concert with the executive and advisory committee consisting of Dr. Solly, Rev Mr. Merrill, Mr. Thurlow, Mrs Goddard and Miss Crowell, who will report at the next general meeting

A list of contributors and donations will be published at the beginning of the year.

Charles Delaney, alias Hatcher, who killed Dan Lingham, the saloon keeper at Colorado City, last Saturday, gave himself up to the authorities yesterday. Sheriff Len Jackson has been rather anticipating this move for several days and on Tuesday he was quietly informed by a friend of Hatcher's that if he would be at Colorado City yesterday it would probably not be a very difficult matter to secure him. Yesterday afternoon he came to the city and about 2 o'clock as he stood up the street Batcher came walking down towards him and quietly submitted to arrest. He was brought to the city and lodged in the county jail last night He refused absolutely to converse about his case, stating that all at the would come out at the examination to morrow. He declined to state where he had been concealed since the day of the tragedy, farther than to say that it was not in this city. In the top of his head, and almost directly in the centre, is a terrible scalp wound, but whether it is from the front or the rear it was impossible to judge in the uncertain light of the jail His preliminary examination will occur before Justice Jackson, of Colorado City, to morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock

Mrs Scott Siddons will be the attraction at the opera house next Saturday evening in her dramatic recitals An exchange in speaking of this popular actress says: It is the highest proof of her powers that Mrs Scott-Siddons produces so profound an impression in such scenes as the sleep-walking scene from Macbeth, or in the defiance of "Lady Constance," from King John. It was a striking interpretation of the spirit of the passage—almost in the nature of impersonation of the personal attributes of the character whose sentiments she speaks In this branch of her art, Mrs Scott Siddons is vastly helped by her own physical graces She has a magnificent figure, lovely eyes, which speak the emotions of the soul as truly as the tongue, the gift of a singularly appropriate, eloquent gesture and a voice whose power of soft, modulated expression is only matched by its capacity for expressing the most violent emotions of rage, defiance, hate, or scorn It is easy to believe that the genius of the great Siddons lives in her grandniece, whom she resembles

The same activity which marked the first day's sale of lots in the Boston Land Company's addition to the town of Roswell continued yesterday. Many, of those who purchased for speculation, but there were anxious to secure themselves a home in that beautiful location. There seems every reason to believe that all the land in that locality will one day be quite valuable. The building in that direction rapidly, it was stated yesterday that in the spring the horse car company will extend its track to the end of the Boston addition This would place every lot within a block, and a number of two blocks of the car line It is also a rumor that a syndicate of Boston capitalists have made an offer for a portion of the forty acres of land north of the city to build a splendid hotel upon the concession of certain

LOOK OUT! -:- BE CAREFUL!

Don't do anything you will be sorry for. If you have already bought all your Holiday Presents, don't come into my Museum and Curiosity store, as it will make you discontented to see so many attractive things for presents not found elsewhere. If you have not done so, and have an idle hour, come in and look at the new and curious things I picked up on my recent trip through New Mexico and Old Mexico.

You will not be expected to buy anything unless you want to, and whether you do so or not we will all be just as happy. I put about five hundred dollars into Curiosities which I do not ex. ct to sell—just bought them up to let folks here see what they have south of us. The goods are not all in yet and those that have arrived are not all in place, but if you wait for that you may miss some of the best, as they are selling rapidly. We sold two dozen Mexican rag figures yesterday, and there are only four dozen left. We sell smaller figures at three dollars each, this year. Another lot of Navajo Indian Blankets is expected this week. Connoisseurs say they have never seen so fine a collection as I made this last trip.

We opened yesterday a beautiful line of Mexican Onyx Carvings from Pueblo, and some curious horn dishes from San Luis Potosi.

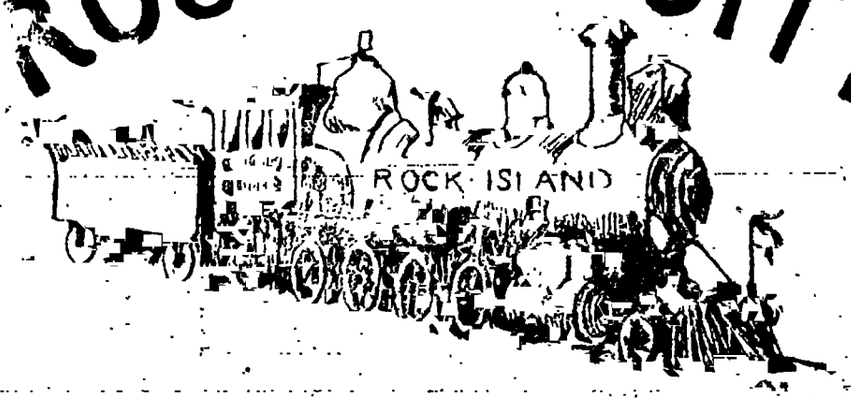
ROSWELL CITY.



GREAT SUCCESS!

The sale of lots now in progress in this new and thriving town is unsurpassed in the history of real estate sales in this vicinity. The people are beginning to realize that this property is just what they have been looking for all summer. Hundred of mechanics and tradesmen have bought lots there during the past week, on which to erect neat homes.

A SECOND COLORADO CITY

Is now an accomplished fact, except that there will be no saloons in Roswell City. The coming year will doubtless see hundreds of houses dotting the landscape which but a month ago was destitute of any sign of habitation. We want every man and woman in town that is looking for a home or investment to buy a lot of us. We are selling lots cheap, too cheap.

-:- THINK OF THIS! -:-

A House and Lot for $150.

Notwithstanding our enormous sales we have many beautiful residence lots left. Come and see us, whether you buy or not, we will gladly and proudly show you the coming city. If we had the space we could enumerate many new enterprises which have been arranged for during the past week.

R. W. SIELE
Manager of the Gazette

It is said that Governor Hill will soon launch his presidential boom. It is to be hoped that it will be a success. It will make General Harrison's election easy.

We must apologize to our readers for our limited amount of reading space this morning. To-morrow we shall publish a supplement which will probably continue to do so until after the holidays.

It is said that a strong combination has been formed to defeat Mr. Wolcott in the fight for the senatorship. As this combination comprises the names of nearly all the other candidates for the place, it might be a little interesting to know just how the spoils are to be divided in case they succeed in defeating Wolcott.

In connection with the gossip about the probable successor to Mr. Oberly as civil service commissioner, there comes a rumor that Mr. Edgerton, the other democratic member of that committee, is to resign. If Mr. Edgerton does retire from the commission, he will do so without calling forth any regrets from the friends of civil service reform. He has never had any sympathy with the reforms he was chosen to advance.

There seems to be no end to the list of candidates for the United States senate to succeed Senator Bowen. Judge Victor A. Elliott who was recently elected to the supreme bench and Governor Evans are the latest additions to the list. Even of the five most prominent candidates is confident that he will control the republican caucus and the friends of the less prominent ones are just as confident that no one controls the caucus and that a dark horse will win in the fight, in the open legislature.

As a matter of course the most interesting part of President Cleveland's last annual message to congress relates to the tariff question, and it will surprise no one familiar with Mr. Cleveland's oft-repeated adherence to a notion once adopted by him to learn that he still maintains that as a protest is done to by the friends of duties on imports.

If he had studied the recent election returns with intelligence he would have discovered that it was in the agricultural districts [illegible] were largest, and that in manufacturing states like New Jersey, Connecticut and New Hampshire, the democrats made a better showing than anywhere else outside the solid south.—Denver Republican.

This is an interesting discussion only it is too late. The Republicans say that Cleveland maintains that "great injustice is done to the farmers and other classes of labor by the present duties on imports." We presume by "other classes of labor" the classes are meant. It is manufactures is intended. The Republicans say the farmer class showed republican gains and the manufacturing classes showed democratic gains. Of course the returns do not show whether there is injustice in the tariff laws on this subject. The Republicans makes a dangerous admission in the above. It is known that the farmer has practically none of his products protected, excepting wool. The place of the wheat is regulated by the price in Liverpool which is determined by competition with the pauper labor of India and south Russia. On the other hand the manufacturing classes are largely protected and have a direct interest in protection. It was asserted that if we had free trade, all engaged in protected manufactures would be reduced to the level of the pauper labor of Europe. This was the great issue and we think the Republicans carried the campaign on account of it. Now it matters the extra profits they receive at first the republicans stand among the unprotected classes and not among the protected classes. That is confusing, and we hope the Republicans will explain it more at length. The truth on this subject is a matter of great importance to the Republican party in outlining a policy. If the Republicans statement is true then the senate tariff bill cannot be passed too soon.
